10 TELE ATLAS N.V. and TELE ATLAS
NORTH AMERICA,

11 Plaintiffs,

12 v.

13 NAVTEQ CORPORATION,

14 Defendant.

15 No. C-05-01673 RMW (RS)

16 ORDER DENYING NAVTEQ'S MOTION TO COMPEL DEPOSITIONS OF ALEXANDER
RIBBINK AND HAROLD GODDIJN

17 [Re Docket No. 337]

18 NAVTEQ moves on shortened time to compel Tele Atlas to produce witnesses for two depositions prior to December 2, 2008, the start of trial in this case. The witnesses, Alexander 19 Ribbink and Harold Goddijn, reside in the Netherlands. Tele Atlas opposes the motion. The court has reviewed the papers and considered the arguments of counsel presented at a hearing on 20 November 5, 2008. For the following reasons, the court denies the motion.

21 I. BACKGROUND

22 A. NAVTEQ's Attempts to Seek Discovery from TomTom

23 Alexander Ribbink and Harold Goddijn live in Amsterdam. Eiseman Decl. ¶ 8. They both 24 worked for a TomTom entity, though Mr. Ribbink no longer has any affiliation with TomTom. See
id. ¶¶ 3, 8.¹ Both Mr. Ribbink and Mr. Goddijn likely possess information relevant to this litigation,

26
27
28 ¹ TomTom announced a bid to acquire Tele Atlas in June of 2007. Johnstone Decl. ¶
13. TomTom completed its acquisition of Tele Atlas in June, 2008. Id.

1 as NAVTEQ at the very outset identified both of them as persons with information that NAVTEQ
 2 might use to support its claims or defenses in this case. Daily Decl., Ex. A ¶¶ 9, 10 (NAVTEQ
 3 Corp.'s initial disclosures dated August 19, 2005). In other words, NAVTEQ knew over three years
 4 ago that the testimony of Messrs. Ribbink and Goddijn might be relevant and that these witnesses
 5 lived overseas.

6 On April 9, 2007, NAVTEQ subpoenaed TomTom, Inc. for a deposition scheduled for April
 7 27, 2007. See Towle Decl., Ex. A. TomTom, Inc. (presumably a subsidiary of TomTom
 8 International B.V.) objected to the subpoena and pointed out that it was not a party to any dealings
 9 with Tele Atlas or NAVTEQ. See id., Ex. B. It appears that the deposition did not take place, and 10 that TomTom, Inc.'s counsel offered to arrange a voluntary deposition of TomTom International
 11 B.V. in Europe. See id. ¶ 3, Ex. C. Nothing appears to have happened until TomTom Inc.'s counsel
 12 contacted NAVTEQ in August of 2007 to spur NAVTEQ to take action on its request for discovery.
 13 See id., Ex. C. NAVTEQ responded on August 28 that it was "still interested in pursuing a 14 deposition of TomTom" and that it would follow up with TomTom's counsel. See id. TomTom
 15 wrote back the same day requesting that NAVTEQ call back "in the next couple of days" to schedule
 16 a deposition. Id.

17 Whether or not NAVTEQ's counsel contacted TomTom about scheduling a deposition is 18 unclear. NAVTEQ's counsel states that he "followed up [an August 28, 2007 email] with a phone
 19 call to TomTom's counsel, confirming that NAVTEQ maintained its intent to depose TomTom."
 20 Johnstone Decl. ¶ 6. This phone call may have occurred between the two emails of August 28.
 21 TomTom's counsel declares that after her August 28 email, she has no memory or record of any 22 further contact between TomTom and NAVTEQ related to this litigation. Towle Decl. ¶ 7.
 23 Regardless, no deposition of any TomTom entity was ever scheduled in this case. Id. ¶ 8. Nor was 24 any deposition of Messrs. Ribbink or Goddijn ever scheduled. Id. Indeed, there is no evidence that 25 NAVTEQ sought a deposition of Mr. Ribbink or Mr. Goddijn prior to now.

26 B. NAVTEQ's Agreements With Tele Atlas Regarding Discovery

27 As discovery was set to close on May 1, 2007, NAVTEQ and Tele Atlas appear to have 28 agreed to allow the depositions of various third parties including TomTom to take place "in May"

1 and to "try to do so as soon as possible." Johnstone Decl., Ex. B (email summarizing agreement by 2 NAVTEQ's counsel). Though no written agreement seems to exist, the parties appear to have
 3 allowed some of these depositions (but not TomTom's) to occur over the summer of 2007. See id. ¶
 4 4. NAVTEQ's counsel declares that he "indicated that NAVTEQ still reserved the right to depose
 5 TomTom pursuant to the earlier parties' agreement" in a phone conversation with Tele Atlas's
 6 counsel around September of 2007, though no memorialization of the conversation appears to exist.
 7 Id. ¶ 8. NAVTEQ provides no evidence regarding any efforts it made to depose TomTom (let alone
 8 individual witnesses Mr. Ribbink or Mr. Goddijn) between September of 2007 and October of 2008.

9 II. ANALYSIS

10 NAVTEQ's motion to compel is thin on legal argument. NAVTEQ argues that the court
 11 should compel Tele Atlas to produce Messrs. Ribbink and Goddijn to enforce an agreement that 12 exists between NAVTEQ and Tele Atlas. Reviewing NAVTEQ's motion, evidence of anything
 13 approaching an enforceable agreement is entirely absent. At best, Tele Atlas and NAVTEQ agreed
 14 to permit NAVTEQ to depose TomTom after the close of discovery. There is no basis to believe that 15 any such agreement extended to Mr. Ribbink or Mr. Goddijn, neither of whom were subject to an 16 outstanding subpoena at the close of discovery. Furthermore, despite this agreement, it appears that 17 NAVTEQ failed to make any effort to schedule TomTom's deposition. NAVTEQ still does not seek 18 TomTom's deposition, but rather it seeks the depositions of two TomTom employees. NAVTEQ has 19 provided no factual or legal basis for compelling Tele Atlas to produce two witnesses located 20 overseas (over which it may or may not have control) for a deposition over a year and a half after the 21 close of discovery and without ever having subpoenaed the two witnesses. NAVTEQ's alternative 22 relief – excluding Mr. Ribbink and Mr. Goddijn from testifying at trial – likewise lacks any basis.

23 III. ORDER

24 For the foregoing reasons, the court denies NAVTEQ's motion.
